Consumers increasing exasperation in trying to locate a quality replacement that matches their existing WC toilet seat has been solved by Goodwood Bathrooms with the company's ingenious dedicated web site www.oddshapelooseat.co.uk

The Heritage Colonial bathroom suite enjoyed immense popularity and dominated the markets for several years. Therefore, thousands of consumers within the UK still have this classic suite fitted in their home but are left with the problem of where to go for a replacement seat. Finding a toilet seat that matches the quality and beauty of discontinued lines can be a real challenge for the consumer as they are often faced with a very limited range of loo seats within large chain DIY stores, worse, they are manufactured from low end materials (plastics) and are made to generic sizes that do not exactly match in terms of both shape and size.

www.oddshapelooseat.co.uk provides the only real solution for consumers in this position as they manufacture high quality seats that are made to precisely fit virtually any WC from an ever expanding range of 300 different shaped toilet seats. Offering a colour matching service on its wood finishes and a selection of 3 solid colours and 16 environmentally friendly sustainable woods, the consumer is sure to find a toilet seat that will match their bathroom.

Built to last, the toilet seats are sprayed with a durable two pack a/c lacquer with hand sanding between the coats to produce the highest quality finish. A choice of fittings are available to mix and match with the various options of colour, finish and shape. All hinges are manufactured from solid brass and plated in either chrome, inca gold, bright or matt nickel. With a lifetime guarantee on hinge and buffer components, these toilet seats are truly built to last.

The Heritage Colonial toilet seat measures 444mm length, 398mm width, and the holes are 155mm. The Heritage Colonial toilet seat retails from £ 253.80 including VAT.
